Occupation: Small Business Owner

Age: 37

Burbank has been my home for 24 years. I understand the importance of preserving our small town values, while creating solid business and financial growth for our city. In order to do this, a change in leadership is needed. It is time to return to a tradition of 'service above self.' This is why I am running for City Council.

The value of 'service above self' was instilled at a young age. It is what inspired me to serve our country as a Marine, participate in Leadership Burbank, and volunteer for local organizations: Rotary, Kiwanis, Chamber of Commerce, FSA and BTAC.

As a veteran of the Iraqi war and small business owner, I have encountered many challenges and made difficult decisions, always keeping in mind the greater good of all. In addressing City concerns, my decision making process will reflect these values. Acknowledging our challenges, while continuing with "business as usual" is NOT acceptable.

I believe that residents are the biggest assets that our city has. Our quality of life and our small town values must be protected in these changing times.

I humbly request your consideration and vote.
