City of Burbank Investment Portfolio Report for October 2023 Dated November 30, 2023

Dear City Council Members
Justin Hess, City Manager
Judie Wilke, Assistant City Manager
Jennifer Becker, Financial Services Director
Joe Lillio, CFO Burbank Water & Power

This report fulfills City, Youth Endowment Services Fund, Parking Authority, Public Financing Authority, Successor Agency to the Redevelopment Agency and Housing Authority resolutions.

CITY PORTFOLIO OVERVIEW

The City must maintain $115 million in liquidity at all times (maturities within one year plus real estate taxes due from the County in April and December) to meet our projected budgeted expenditures. We currently have $172 million in liquidity, with $15 million in our account at the Morgan Stanley Institutional Liquidity Fund – Government Portfolio, $54 million in our account at the California Asset Management Program, $55 million in investments maturing within a year and $48 million in real estate taxes due in April and December.

The City Investment Pool ended October at $535 million, down from September's balance of $546 million. Market value came in at 94.9% in October, slightly lower than 95% in September. The weighted average yield of the portfolio at the end of the month is 3.19% and the total rate of return fiscal year-to-date is 3.23%.

Credit News

On November 1, Moody's confirmed Truist Bank's credit ratings while changing its outlook to negative, stating that it reflects "the risk that over the next 12-18 months Truist cannot rapidly materially further improve its capitalization metrics while maintaining strong asset quality as well as a sound funding and liquidity profile. The negative outlook also reflects our expectation that profitability will be somewhat constrained and remain around current levels. This risk is heightened because of the possibility of higher-for-longer interest rates, slower economic growth, and recession risks. Moody's will continue to assess management's plans and its timeline for further improving the firm's capitalization, as well as the cost to do so. The confirmation of Truist's ratings reflects Moody's view that Truist should be able to continue to grow its capital ratios through earnings retention and balance sheet optimization activities, and also maintain adequate control of its asset liability management (ALM) risks, including rising funding costs and its sizeable holdings of low-yielding, fixed-rate assets."

On November 13, Moody's confirmed Bank of NY Mellon's credit ratings, while changing its outlook to positive, stating that "the confirmation... reflects Moody's view that BNY Mellon's high liquidity, low asset risks, and fee-oriented earnings profile, should continue to underpin the resiliency of the company's performance and support an elevated rating relative to US and global bank peers. However, despite these factors, Moody's sees continued negative pressure... stemming from still challenging funding conditions in the US which could present headwinds for the company's funding and liquidity risk management over the next 12 to 18 months at a time when BNY Mellon is also facing pressures on profitability and economic capital associated with higher interest rates."

On November 13, Moody's confirmed the National Securities Clearing Corporation's credit ratings while changing its outlook to negative, stating that it reflects "the potentially weaker capacity of the Government of the United States of America (Aaa negative) to support the US's systemically important financial market utilities (SIFMUs), as reflected in the recent change of the outlook on the sovereign issuer rating to negative from stable. A downgrade of the Aaa US sovereign rating would likely result in a downgrade of the long-term ratings and clearing counterparty ratings of DTCC and its clearing and depository agencies. These ratings currently benefit from one notch of uplift to reflect the very high likelihood that the Government of the United States of America would intend to support DTCC's clearing and depository agencies should they suffer financial distress. However, should the creditworthiness of the Government of the United States of America deteriorate, resulting in a downgrade of its Aaa rating, the Government of the United States of America would have less ability to support DTCC's clearing and depository agencies, and their ratings would likely be downgraded as a result. The affirmations of DTCC and its clearing and depository agencies' ratings reflect their dominant and entrenched roles in facilitating financial transactions in the US capital markets."

On November 13, Moody's confirmed State Street's credit ratings while changing its outlook to negative, stating that it reflects "the downward pressure on State Street Bank and Trust Company's BCA associated with the heightened risk of additional deposit outflows as a result of higher-for-longer interest rates, which could weaken State Street's funding profile. At the same time, State Street's regulatory capital ratios are declining as the bank reduces its capital buffers and its economic capital is under pressure from higher interest rates. Profitability also may face further pressure given tighter monetary policy's impacts on fee and net interest income." The confirmation of State Street's ratings reflects Moody's view that "State Street's high liquidity, low asset risks, and fee-oriented earnings profile should continue to underpin the resiliency of the company's performance and support an elevated rating relative to US and global bank peers."

On November 14, Moody's confirmed New York Life and Northwestern Mutual's credit ratings while changing its outlook to negative, stating that it "is influenced by Moody's view that the (1) linkages between the credit profiles of these life insurers and the US Government are strong, (2) insurers lack sufficient diversification or the resiliency to decouple, or absorb the fallout, from systemic risks that affect the US Government's creditworthiness, and aligns their outlook with the negative outlook on the US Government's rating, and (3) ability for a company to raise debt and equity, as governed by the scale and sophistication of a country's capital markets, is an important adjunct to the level of group debt and its debt servicing capability. Therefore, any weakening in the currency bond rating of the country in which a company operates also places downward pressure on its overall financial flexibility. The affirmation of New York Life's ratings reflect the group's intrinsic strengths as the largest US mutual life insurer, with a well-known brand name, leading position in the US life insurance market, a large, profitable in-force block of participating whole life insurance (par WL), and strong business diversity that includes leading businesses in asset management and group insurance. The affirmation of Northwestern Mutual's ratings reflect the company's exceptional intrinsic strengths, including leading positions and strong franchise in the US life insurance market, excellent distribution network, strong underwriting skills as shown by excellent persistency and mortality experience, and a robust and resilient balance sheet."

On November 28, S&P's revised Estee Lauder's rating from A+ to A, while changing its outlook to negative, stating that "reported first-quarter revenues decreased 10.5% and S&P Global Ratings-adjusted quarterly EBITDA margin fell to about 14% from 25.7% year over year. Absolute EBITDA declined $2 billion for the last 12 months ended Sept. 30, 2023, compared to the same period last year, mainly driven by declines in its travel retail channel. This, combined with $2 billion of additional debt to acquire Tom Ford, has weakened credit metrics, specifically leverage to over 3x for the last 12 months ended Sept. 30. As a result of weak expectations, we lowered our 2024 top-line revenue forecast to a decline of 1.5% (previously up double-digit percents). We also expect lower profitability and cash flow due to weakness in the travel retail channel, ongoing inventory realignment at retailers, and a weakened consumer environment. The soft global macroeconomic backdrop has reduced consumer demand for discretionary products, which could constrain sales of Estee Lauder's owned brands such as MAC and Clinique. We now forecast leverage will remain above 2x in 2024 before declining to about the 2x area in 2025."

MARKET OUTLOOK

Treasury Secretary Janet Yellen recently indicated that "signs are very good that we'll achieve a soft landing, with unemployment stabilizing more or less where it is, or in the general vicinity." The unemployment rate currently stands at 3.9% as of October, just slightly than the 3.4% rate in April. Inflation has also slowed down as the Consumer Price Index has now declined to 3.2% in October, with the Personal Consumption Expenditures index also dropping to 3%. Although Black Friday spending hit a record high, up 7.5% from last year, buy now, pay later financing was up over 40% compared to last year, and there are signs that consumers are now being more cautious with their spending. Several Fed officials have now indicated that with the progress in inflation, the central bank may be done or almost done with hiking rates.

Meanwhile, corporations continue to hire, albeit at a slower pace, and earnings remain relatively strong. Even though the Fed hiked rates to above 5%, similar to homeowners with their mortgages, a lot of corporations were able to lock in much lower borrowing costs during the pandemic. Furthermore, now that rates are high, companies have invested their excess cash, earning a lot more than what they are paying in interest with their debt. For American corporations, net interest payments, the money owed on debt, less the income from interest-bearing investments, are now at its lowest levels since the 1980s. However, as debt matures in the next few years, this trend could reverse as companies would have to refinance at much higher levels, if interest rates stay elevated. Small and medium businesses, who typically do not get funding through bonds or investors, are already feeling negative impact of paying much higher rates for their bank loans and credit card debt.
